

It was early in the morning. Mama Hare was in the kitchen preparing breakfast — and, of course, the little Bunny's favorite salad: carrot and cabbage. After morning exercises, the bunny siblings washed up and sat at the table.

The most pleasant part of the morning?
Breakfast, of course! A good meal brings joy and energy for the day. Today was a special day — it was the day of the letter C.

The letter C had an important job: to take the children to school, and little Bunny to kindergarten.

Letter C brought along some of his friends: Cat, Camel, and Crab, They also wanted to help teach children how to read and write the letter C. As we said, C was in charge of the morning ride.

Papa Hare went off to his greenhouse, and Mama Hare stayed home to work remotely on her computer.

The letter C drove the older children to school in his cheerful Car. Then, he drove the younger ones — including little Bunny — to kindergarten. There, Madam Goat, Madam Fox, and Madam Chicken greeted the children.
